

This is the model I need to analyze robot and get the reactions of substrates such as this in the pictures do not care values but if the meaning of such reactions at node B should give me only when I do a force in I get two robot forces do not understand why result

axial force

