

This is below the display range. It should not be showing up in my drawing.

Hidden lines showing correctly via the "MEP Design" visual style.

As you can see, the sides of the ductwork have disappeared. The ductwork runs horizontal within the display range, but then turns up and runs above the display range. This looks like crap.

